

Career Services

RECIPROCITY POLICY

Many law schools provide access to their career resources for students and graduates from other law schools, providing their school provides similar services. Each law school has its own reciprocity requirements. If reciprocity is granted, students/graduates should read and honor the reciprocity policy of the host school.

Western New England University law students and graduates:

To request reciprocity to access career services resources from other law schools, email careers@law.wne.edu

Law students and graduates of other law schools:

The Western New England University School of Law Career Services Office is pleased to offer our services, as outlined below, to other students on a reciprocal basis. To request reciprocity, contact the Career Services Office of your law school and request they email the request on your behalf to careers@law.wne.edu stating whether you are a student or graduate. Your law school and you will be notified whether the request has been approved. Upon approval the following policy applies:

1. Services are available to students and graduates in good standing of ABA accredited law schools that allow Western New England University School of Law students and graduates to use their facilities.
2. We will not limit the number of referrals from a single school unless the other school grants reciprocity only on a one-for-one basis, in which case we will limit the same.
3. All requests for services must be made in writing or email by the Career Office in advance of the student's/graduate's visit.
4. The services will be available to a student/graduate for a three-month period.
5. Reciprocity is not available during the fall recruiting season that runs from August 15 through November 15.
6. Graduates of other law schools shall have access to job listings through the Alumni Job Bulletin and office reference materials.
7. Students from other law schools may visit our office to view reference materials, including job listings, by appointment.
