This event is presented by the Center for International Sport Business (CISB) and is sponsored by the Western New England University Alumni Association.

Established in 2007, the CISB is a forum for the study of the business of sport with an international focus.
In addition to the distinguished speaker program that brings prominent personalities from sport and business to the University community, the CISB organizes a summer Seminar Abroad Program that takes students to the Olympic Games and FIFA World Cup.

Speaker Series

For the Love of the Games

On the Patriots Beat

Thursday, November 2, 2017

7:00 p.m., Sleith Hall, Wood Auditorium
Western New England University

Mike Reiss, a Boston-based sports reporter, covers the New England Patriots and his work has appeared on ESPN's SportsCenter, NFL Insiders, NFL Live, and ESPN Radio.

Reiss began his career covering the Patriots for the team's official newspaper, Patriots Football Weekly, after which he worked for the MetroWest Daily News and subsequently, the Boston Globe. Reiss joined ESPN in 2009, where he has remained since as the NFL Nation reporter covering the New England Patriots.

Reiss is an innovator in providing around-the-clock and interactive sports coverage, creating his "Reiss' Pieces" blog in 2002 at Boston.com, which he continues today at mikereiss.net. In 2015, Reiss teamed up with former Patriots wide receiver Troy Brown to write Patriot Pride: My Life in the New England Dynasty, which chronicles Brown's 15-year career with the Patriots.

A member of the Professional Football Writers of America (PFWA), Reiss obtained his bachelor's degree in sport management from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.
