

Clason Speaker Series Fall 2019

No Time to Lose: Addressing the Climate Crisis in Court

Jennifer K. Rushlow is the Associate Dean for Environmental Programs, Director of the Environmental Law Center, and Associate Professor of Law at Vermont Law School.

Prior to joining the faculty at Vermont Law School, Professor Rushlow was a Senior Attorney and Director of Farm and Food at Conservation Law Foundation (CLF) in Boston. Before that, she worked in private practice at the law firm Anderson & Kreiger in Boston.

Professor Rushlow has expertise in a wide range of environmental issues, including climate change, agriculture, transportation, and environmental justice. Professor Rushlow argued and won a landmark climate law case before the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, Kain v. Department of Environmental Protection, 474 Mass. 278 (2016). She was named a 2016 Lawyer of the Year by Mass Lawyers Weekly for her work on the case. Professor Rushlow was also appointed to serve on the Massachusetts Zero Emission Vehicle Commission by Governor Deval Patrick in 2015.

Professor
Jennifer K.
Rushlow
Associate Dean for Environmental Programs and Associate Professor of Law, Vermont Law School

Wednesday, October 30, 2019
12:00 noon | Law School Common

Sponsored by the Clason Speaker Series.

All lectures open to students, alumni, the University community, and the general public.

Lunch will be served.

For more information, call 413-782-1439 or email Professor Harris Freeman at hfreeman@law.wne.edu.

The Clason Speaker Series presents expert lectures to the School of Law. The series is named after Charles R. Clason, a prominent local attorney and member of the U.S. House of Representatives, who held the position of Dean of the School of Law from 1954 to 1970. Today, the purpose of the Charles and Emma Clason Endowment Fund is to host speakers who will enhance the academic environment of the School of Law and the University.

