Western New England University (WNE) and Student Disability Services (SDS) are committed to providing reasonable accommodations to students who have documented disabilities as defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments Act.

SDS follows a process to determine student eligibility for accommodations. For more information please refer to the Accommodations Eligibility Process & Documentation Guidelines.

Students should complete this form as part of the process. This form serves as a means to self-disclose and describe firsthand how their disability impacts them in the educational environment.

SDS reserves the right to make the final determination of reasonable and appropriate accommodations for qualified students on a case-by-case basis.

Students are responsible for requesting accommodations from SDS as needed in a timely fashion.

Accommodations are not automatic or retroactive and students must meet all academic standards and requirements set forth by the University with or without reasonable accommodations.

SDS supports students as adult learners fostering independence and self-advocacy.
